Chamberlain Rules Out Peace With The Hitler Regime

Insists On The Independence of Poles and Czechs

LONDON, Feb. 24—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain today flatly ruled out any peace with the present German government as incapable of guaranteeing future security to Europe.

Official circles were described as regarding Adolf Hitler's speech as "one on which it is not worth commenting."

As Chamberlain pledged a fight to the finish "until we are satisfied that freedom is safe," the conflict with Germany produces these new results:

The naval trawler Benvolio, a 352-ton vessel engaged in minesweeping, sang after hitting a mine with ten of her men lost. The vessel was the 30th of the British navy to go down since the war began.

The air ministry announced Royal Air Force planes scouted deep into greater Germany for the second successive night, ranging as far afield as Prague, capital of dismembered Czecho - Slovakia. Officials said besides Prague, points scouted included Kiel, Hamburg and Bremen. One plane made a forced landing in Belgium; the crew of six was arrested.

The British press reported without official confirmation that Royal Air Force planes had sunk three German submarines and a merchantman had rammed and sunk another.

The toll of merchantmen victims of the war rose with the foundering of the British steamer Royal Archer, 2,266 tons, while being towed after striking a mine. Danish advices said the 1,206-ton Danish ship Aase had been sunk in the Atlantic with 16 seamen lost.

Sharpest Fight Talk

Winding up a series of pep meetings by cabinet ministers with an address in his home town of Birmingham, the gaunt, 70-year-old Chamberlain delivered one of his sharpest fight talks of the war.

Chamberlain decried Nazi aims as destruction of Britain and "domination of the world."

Britain, on the other hand, he said to the cheers of the crowd, is fighting a "crusade" for freedom and to abolish "the spirit of militarism and accumulation of armaments which is pauperizing all Europe and not in the least Germany herself."

"How in concrete terms are these aims to be secured?" He asked, and answered:

"First, independence of the Poles and Czechs must be assured.

"Secondly, we must have some tangible evidence that will satisfy us that any pledges or assurances given will be fulfilled. Under the present German government there can be no security for the future."

He called Finland's fight against invading Russia a "heroic struggle" against "a gigantic and unwieldy adversary" and in an incisive passage on the British raid into a Norwegian fjord to free 299 British captives from a German prison ship, said:

"A neutral must not complain" if Britain "commits a mere technical breach of neutrality, taking no neutral life and touching no neutral property" in freeing men "illegally made prisoners."

Sues For $10,000 In Husband's Death

A $10,000 damage suit was filed in the circuit court Saturday by Mrs. Olive Davis against the Missouri, Kansas, Texas Railroad Lines.

The plaintiff states that her husband Ira Davis, was killed September 7, 1937, when a car in which he was riding collided with an M. K. T. train. The accident occurred near Chanute, Kas.

Education Tour of S.-C. Seniors Being Planned

Trip To Capital And Other Places Of Interest

A conducted educational tour, for at least fifty high school seniors, and possibly a number of other persons, is being arranged by the Smith-Cotton high school faculty, to be taken the first week in April.

The plan has been under consideration for some time by school officials, and if successful this year may become an annual affair.

The tour is to Washington, D. C., with side trips to Mount Vernon, Annapolis, Alexandria, Va., and possibly other places.

Would Leave April 1

The party will leave Sedalia, via the Missouri Pacific, at 2:50 o'clock in the morning, Monday, April 1. They will have breakfast at the Union Station, St. Louis, and leave there at 9:15 o'clock that morning on the Pennsylvania "American" arriving in Washington, D. C. at 7:50 o'clock Tuesday morning, being transferred by bus from the train to a first class hotel where rooms will have been reserved for the visitors. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday will be spent in Washington, seeing places of interest, under the supervision of guides, and the return trip is made Thursday night and Friday, arriving in Sedalia at 7:40 o'clock in the afternoon.

The cost of the trip, $48.75, includes railroad fare from Sedalia and return, meals on the train while traveling, hotel accomodations and meals in Washington, with bus fare where needed. Students who have railroad passes may make the trip for $22.60, which includes all expenses.

The school hopes to make arrangements to have the students see some members of Congress and possibly President Roosevelt.

While only seniors from the high school are to make the trip and those who do not go will attend regular classes, Sedalians who desire to go with the party may do so.

Candidacies In City Election Are Discussed

Police Chief, Four Aldermen And Other Offices Be Filled

With the city election, April 2, just about five weeks off, members of both political parties are beginning to discuss possible candidates for the city offices that will be vacated.

"It's really too soon to know anything definite," leaders say, "and many candidates may make known their intentions before the city caucuses and conventions, which will be held about the middle of March."

All candidates are selected in city conventions, made up of delegates from wards and precincts in the city. The candidates who receive the greatest number of delegates votes are placed on the ticket, as the party's nominees.

To Elect Four Aldermen

Four aldermen must be elected, one from each ward. In the first ward S. J. Timborious, Democrat, is not a candidate for re-election. Emmett Sullivan is being mentioned as a possible candidate for the Democrats, but the Republicans have not made known the name of any candidate, if there is any one under consideration at this time. In the second ward Elmer Sumners, now serving his second term, will be a candidate to succeed himself on the Democratic ticket, and here too no Republican is being mentioned to date. Walter Pinkepank, third ward incumbent, may seek the nomination for his third term on the Democratic ticket. Fred Anton and A. L. Pringle, Republicans, are both being mentioned from that ward. In the fourth ward A. L. Bohling will probably seek the re-election for his second term on the Democratic ticket, with no Republican candidate in the field yet.

C. W. Bente, Democrat, police judge, is out for re-election. So far there has been no one named to oppose him.

Theft From A Popcorn Stand

Miss Charlotte Harmon, in charge of the popcorn concession at the Uptown theatre, 225 South Ohio avenue, stepped away from the stand in the lobby and into the treatre proper a few minutes last night. She returned in time to see a young man scooping the money from the cash drawer of the stand, and dash down the street.

A report was made to police headquarters and a description of the person given.

A short time later police officers took Charles Weiterman in custody, who, upon being questioned, denied he had committed the robbery. He was taken to the theatre, where Miss Harmon said he resembled the person she had seen, and he is being held in the county jail.

The sum of $13.05 was taken, but Weiterman, when searched, had only 35 cents on his person.

Weiterman has been released from the penitentiary less than six weeks. He was serving time for taking a car which belonged to Cal Rodgers, and was arrested after a chase by highway patrolmen.

'Wolf, Wolf,' Cry Jeff City Moguls

"Keep the For Rent' Signs
Out of Our Windows
Vote For the Bond Issue"

Above is the slogan of Jefferson City's campaigners in an effort to confuse the taxpayers into voting a $200,000.00 bond issue to keep the Unemployment Compensation Commission offices.

"Save the City From Ruin," is another theme.

Already burdened with high rents, high priced merchandise, profits from which line the pockets of those controlling the business purse strings, Jefferson City taxpayers are bewildered by the exaggerated predictions of what will happen to the town if the bond issue fails.

Aren't the leaders and spokesmen over-excited and jittery facing possible loss of this one bureau? Aren't they just plain panicky? Being thus mentally disturbed how can they expect the taxpayers to believe that they are using calm judgment?

Fooling The Taxpayers

Are the spokesmen telling the Capital City taxpayers that they are going to offer the new municipal building to the commission RENT FREE after deluding the public into believing that they can obtain from the commission a monthly rental of $1,000.00 or more to pay for it without costing the taxpayer anything?

The spokesmen cannot promise the taxpayer this rental will be obtained from the commission. If they do it's a risky delusion because the commission, as everyone knows, is not going contrary to the wishes of out-state taxpayers who are interested in saving this rent money. The commission is not going to be a party to another Jefferson City payroll grab on the strength of the argument that the Capital might disintegrate.

Loss of this one federal-state bureau will mean very little to the commercial life of the Capital. It may mean lower rents and lower priced merchandise for the taxpayers who now have to pay higher prices because they live in a town where advantage is taken of the thousands who are on state payrolls.

Loss Might Be Relief

Absence of one bureau might, in effect, be a relief to Jefferson City taxpayers.

These observations are made for the consumption of Sedalians to remind them that they are not attempting to "ruin" a neighboring city by asking for this one bureau. Sedalians should not attempt to influence the Jefferson City taxpayers by untruthful propaganda. But they should know the truth.

The exaggerated claims made by the proponents of Jefferson City's bond issue make interesting reading down here where a bond issue was passed fairly 18 to 1 without hoodwinking the taxpayers.

At the various taxpayers' meetings Jefferson City folks will not be told about the possibility of the committee's RENT FREE offer to the commission. But in all fairness they should be told what Jefferson City finally must do—match Sedalia's offer!

Too Many Cooks

For the first time in a half century Jefferson City leaders are attempting to unify the diverse civic and political interests in a community proposition. Having lost the technique, the revival attempt is both juvenile and funny because of the argumentative contradictions of the propaganda department. Hugh Stephens, a distinguished and honorable man, president of the Jefferson City Chamber of Commerce, has kept his chin up despite the jittery antics of those who are trying to edge in for selfish reasons to claim any glory that might attend the passage of a bond issue.

After adopting a slogan campaign to keep the For Rent signs out of the windows, a councilmanic spokesman spoils the effect by declaring by inference that the town is already overcrowded and that by keeping the commission in Jefferson City there will be erection of additional homes, thus making it doubly possible that those who own older properties may be forced to put up For Rent signs and find no renters because of the new home building program contemplated.

Comes The Veiled Threat

Politically-minded civic campaigners show a reversion to type by injecting into the appeal to taxpayers that "YOUR JOB may depend on the bonds." This is no more than a plain threat to state job holders who have their residence in Jefferson City. In addition to the bold placards bearing the above threat, word has been quietly passed around in the various state departments that the sign means just exactly what it says.

State employees have become tight-mouthed about even discussing the bond election. They are afraid the pressure group might retaliate. Their honest judgment is that the loss of this one department will not mean disaster to the Capital City; that the whole publicity campaign is one of exaggeration.

But at long last, the tumult and the shouting dies, pounding of pans nears a conclusion; Jefferson City votes on its bond election Tuesday. If the bonds are not passed, the Capital will remain in Jefferson City despite fearsome predictions to the contrary. If the bonds are passed then Missouri wants to see Jefferson City come through with a RENT FREE offer for their municipal building to house the Unemployment Commission offices. Sedalia taxpayers voting bonds took that offer into account. Will Jefferson City taxpayers do likewise knowing that the loss of one state bureau will mean so little in an already over-crowded state bureau community?

Democrats To Fix Convention Place Saturday

State Committee Is To Have Meeting In Sedalia

The Missouri Democratic state committee will meet at the court house, in this city, at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, March 2. The meeting has been called by James P. Aylward of Kansas City, state chairman and national committeeman, to fix a time and place for the state convention.

St. Louis and St. Joseph are reported bidders for the meeting which probably will be held in April.

To Apportion Delegates

The committee probably will apportion delegates to the state convention, on the basis of votes cast for Senator Bennett Champ Clark in 1938—either one for each 500 or one for each 250 votes.

The state convention will choose delegates to the national convention and decide whether to instruct its delegation for any particular presidential candidate.

Pettis county is in the sixth congressional district, which is represented on the state committee by Sam Wear, Springfield, Mrs. Floyd Sperry, Clinton, J. W. Sexton, Harrisonville and Mrs. Martha Smiley, Butler.

George Purnell Critically Hurt

George Purnell, 37, former Sedalian, is in a critical condition in the Chillicothe hospital at Chillicothe, Mo., from injuries suffered when he was hit by a Milwaukee freight train at Chillicothe early Thursday morning.

The accident occurred in the railroad yards at Chillicothe and his left arm and leg were so badly crushed that both were amputated, the arm at the shoulder, the leg below the hip. Late last night a hospital representative, in a telephone call to the Democrat-Capital, said he was holding his own fairly well, and that he is conscious.

Purnell, whose wife and daughter were visiting in Warrensburg, was found in the railroad yards by police, who rushed him to the hospital. They were unable to learn the cause of the accident, or how it occurred, but it was understood he was walking at the time.

Mr. Purnell, a field man for the John Hancock Insurance Company, lived with his family at 703 West Fourth street. He was transferred to Chillicothe and they moved there about a year ago.

Hitler Lists Three Nations In Speech As His Friends

Even Claims God As An Ally of Warring Power

BY EDWIN SHANKE

MUNCH, Feb. 24— (AP) —Adolf Hitler cried out tonight that Germany will fight "until the terror of the plutocracies has been broken'," declared the "three mighty states" of Russia, Italy and Japan to be his friends and proclaimed his trust that God is with his and his Nazi Reich.

To his old guard, in an hour's speech broadcast over the world, the fuehrer asserted "the hand of providence" saved him from death in a bomb explosion in this very city last November 8 and declared the same providence "has especially blessed us" for six years.

"Do you think providence would have blessed us only to drop us now?" he asked—"There is a God—he creates people with equal rights."

Today's Germany, he said, is stronger in every way than the Imperial Reich in 1914—but, especially in its leadership.

Preceded by the blood-stained flag which headed his marchers in the abortive Beer Cellar Putsch of 1923 and surrounded by old party fighters, Hitler came to Munich's Haufbrau hall tonight to commemorate the founding of the Nazi party and its adoption of a 25-point program 20 years ago.

First Speech Since Blast

It was his first speech in Munich since the Burgerbrauhaus explosion wrecked the scene of the original beer cellar plot and killed eight persons shortly after Hitler had left.

On the eve of United States Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles' arrival in Europe for a feeling-out of possible ways of peace, the fuehrer gave a defiant war message to his nation and to the world—threatening to smash anyone who seeks to deny Germany her rightful living space, jeering at "these Chamberlains and their top hats," sneering at Winston Churchill and disdaining to reveal specific war aims.

He did mention his terms prior to the start of the war and described them as modest—"security of our living space, return of our colonies." But his present price for peace went unnamed.

"What we are fighting against," he shouted amidst cries of approval, "is the idea the one or two peoples of the earth should have everything. God didn't make the world for Englishmen alone—it simply cannot be that the Ger-

An Unusual Marital Tangle

LUBBOCK, Tex., Feb. 24—(AP)—A tangled domestic picture of wife No. 1 divorcing her husband a year after he married wife No. 2, then moving in to live with them under the same roof was described today by the district attorney.

The official, Burton S. Burks, said a bigamy charge filed against G. E. Brown, 29-year-old produce worker, brought from Brown this admission: He married Letha Victoria Marshall, 26, in 1929, married Margaret Maryland Mitchell in 1937, was divorced in 1938 by wife No. 1 who moved in four months ago with him and wife No. 2.

Brown's second wife, visiting him in jail where he was held in lieu of $1,000 bond, said the arrangement of both women in the house had worked out with no friction.

Burks quoted Brown as saying he had three children by his first wife and one by his second. A sister of wife No. 1 instituted the bigamy charge.

Heavy Thrusts By Soviets On Finnish Troops

Endeavor For A Pincers Action On City of Viipuri

MOSCOW, Feb. 25.—(Sunday) —(AP)—The occupation of the strongly fortified islands of Koivisto, Tiurinsaari and Piisaari with the capture of 12 heavy coastal tower guns was claimed today by the Russian army in a communique issued by the Leningrad military headquarters.

HELSINKI, Feb. 24—A strategically-spread Red army, its dead littering the snow at the rate of 6,000 in two days, was reported tonight by the Finnish high command to be striking massively at the island environs of Viipuri from a captured coastal base only 7 1-2 miles away.

From Kaislanti, nestled on the war wrecked Gulf of Finland railway just below Finland's erstwhile second city and from Koivisto, 17½ miles further south, once the western anchor of Finland's Mannerheim Line, the Soviet offensive stretched out over the Gulf ice to hammer at Finnish defenders on the remaining islands in Viipuri Bay.

Eastward, other divisions pressed on against the Finnish land defenses between the gulf and Lake Muola, striving to complete a pincers action on Viipuri.

Viipuri Combat Area

This city, once a modern town of 74,000, now is a virtual combat area, its buildings wrecked by shells and its noncombatants moved away.

The Finns said these gulf and land attacks, directed at Viipuri from five points, resulted in heavy Russian losses; that six tanks and six batteries were destroyed. But the Finns did not, this time, say the attacks were repulsed.

Today's communique was the first Finnish admission that Koivisto had fallen, with its fortification, batteries and coastal artillery on an off-shore island.

The announcement likewise disclosed a rapid Russian advance up the railway to the station of Kaislanti, 7 1-2 miles south of Viipuri,

Dies Interceding For Reconciliation

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Feb. 24—(AP) —Anton F. Chylinski, about 60 years old, dropped dead this afternoon at the steering wheel of his car as he attempted to persuade Mrs. Mary Guthrie, who was with him, to return to her husband from whom she was divorced a year ago. Mrs. Guthrie told B. W. Tadlock, coroner, that Chylinski, a friend of her family, had attempted for some time to effect a reconciliation between her and her husband. Doctor Tadlock said death was from heart trouble.

Ban In Berlin On The News Of Visit By Welles

BERLIN, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Nazi Germany tonight placed a strict official ban on publication of news of the impending visit of United States Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles but, nevertheless, put its best foot forward to welcome President Roosevelt's fact-finding emissary.

Although it was emphasized that the program for the visit—which includes an audience with Adolf Hitler next Tuesday or Wednesday—would be carried out without the press getting so much as a peek at it authorized sources disclosed the schedule was complete.

There is little doubt but that the American will get a dignified and hearty welcome.

As the war goes on, German statesmen see more and more that the United States neutrality law has many good points to it, and Germany is ready to go a long way to help keep the United States in the neutral column.

Before the lid was screwed down on publication of information regarding the visit, and applied to the foreign press insofar as information from German sources is concerned, it was learned that Welles' first official contact would be with Von Ribbentrop. The foreign secretary, then, will take the American visitor to see Hitler.

Il Duce Awaits Welles Visit

ROME, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Authoritative sources said tonight, on the eve of the arrival of two personal emissaries of President Roosevelt that Benito Mussolini probably would wait until Undersecretary Sumner Welles has visited Berlin, Paris and London before giving him Italy's official view of the European conflict.

These sources said visits of Welles to Foreign Minister Count Ciano and perhaps to Mussolini, expected next week, likely would be courtesy affairs.

Diplomatic speculation on the mission of United States Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles ranged from suggestions that it was a quest for a practical peace plan—to be advanced by Washington—to others that it indicated America ultimately would participate in the war.

The status of Myron C. Taylor, who will represent the president at the Vatican, was considered to be more self evident, since President Roosevelt has said Taylor would be ready to cooperate with Pope Pius XII in any effort to reestablish a European peace.

Welles and Taylor will arrive at Naples tomorrow.

Store Workers Not Burglars

Paul "Pappy" Green, well known in Sedalia, who is working at the Safeway Store, 2415 Independence avenue, in Kansas City, was mistaken along with another clerk, Carl Neidig, and Virgil F. Nichols, manager of the store, as burglars by members of Troop 33 Boy Scouts last Friday night.

The three men were working in the store after closing hours preparing for Saturday's business, when a Boy Scout saw them in the dim light. Believing they were robbers, he rushed to his troop meeting, notified the scoutmaster and with other boys returned, surrounding the store.

In the meantime other boys deflated the tires on Neidig's car so the "would be" getaway car would be made useless. When police arrived they learned the identity of the men inside the store building.

Rotary Program On Magazine

Dr. R. M. Keller will have a program in the Rotary national magazine, "The Rotarian," at the noonday meeting of the Rotary club at Hotel Bothwell Monday.

Dr. A. G. Hausam is program chairman.

Three Suspects Are Held In Jail

Riley Lee, a farmer living north and east of Beaman, reported to the sheriff late yesterday afternoon that when he returned to his home after being away, he found he had visitors. He said there were two men in his chicken house and one sitting in a car in front of the house.

Riley said he went into the house, got a shot gun and went to the chicken house, but by that time the man in the car had driven away. When he entered the chicken house, he said, the two visitors there started to run, leaving two sacks in which there were chickens.

Unfortunately, he told the officers, he had only one shell in the gun, and he knew if he fired at the man who was running ahead he'd have nothing for the man he had cornered, so he just let the first man run.

Calling to neighbors Lee had them phone for the officers and when Sheriff W. L. Marlin and Deputy Clyde Coppers arrived they found Lee holding Clyde Burnett of Sedalia.

Burnett was taken in custody by the officers, who Saturday night arrested Lloyd Stephens and Lloyd Reed, and the three are held in the county jail.

They will be questioned concerning the visit Monday morning, Sheriff Marlin said last night.

Turkey In Steps Near To Civil Mobilization

ISTANBUL, Feb. 25.—(Sunday)—(AP)—Taking steps amounting virtually to civil mobilizaton, Turkey today appled new emergency measures as the possibility of war in the near east was regarded with increasing apprehension in this country.

The government coordination committee, which was formed to place industry and commerce on virtual war-time basis inaugurated obligatory labbor system in the Eregli coal basin.

Under the plan, expected to be extended quickly, workers in all industry would not be permitted to leave their jobs.

General staff officers arrived from Ankara for final steps in organizing Istanbul's defenses against any possible air and sea bombardments.

More British and French technicians arrived to help make the country ready for war.

Turkish newspapers predicted that war between the Allies and Soviet Russia was certain, especially if Russia becomes an important source of supplies.

It was asserted that in such case, the allies would move immediately against the rich Baku oil fields of Russia on the Caspain Sea.

The newspaper Yeni Sabah, closely connected with the Turkish government, declared "both the logical and legal justification already erist for Brtain and France to declare war on Russia."

Official quarters reiterated that Turkey was ready to fight to defend her own security.

Turkey earlier had been virtually isolated by a storm which swept across southeastern Europe and Turkish officials had denied rumors of impending war which circulated in anxious Balkan capitals as the result of a prolonged interruption of communications.

Housewives Want Privacy

Housewives know what a nuisance it is when you've got your hands in a batter of dough or your hair full of foamy soap and the doorbell rings. You wash off your hands or do something about your hair, take a few quick swipes with a powder puff and mutter as you go to the door. And when you get there, it turns out to be someone selling shoestrings.

On the other hand, you may be in the middle of baking when you discover you're a little short of paprika. And just as you're wondering what to do about it, there's a knock on the door and it's the man who sells vanilla and spices and things.

So there you are. Door-to-door vendors may be an annoyance or a godsend, depending a lot on the mood you're in.

The residents of Montrose, Colo., decided, a couple of years ago, that they would much rather go out and do their shopping, and an ordinance, banning door-to-door soliciting was passed. The Colorado State Supreme Court recently upheld the ordinance on the ground that citizens may act collectively to guarantee the privacy of their homes just as they may individually obtain such privacy.

Large companies, that depend on house-to-house sales, have asked the Colorado court to reverse itself. The only other state supreme court that sustained a similar ordinance was that of Wyoming. The high courts of Florida, South Carolina, and, recently, Oklahoma, have ruled that ordinances prohibiting this type of salesmanship are invalid.

Despite the opinion of the Colorado court, no legislation to make the ban state-wide has yet been offered. There is considerable doubt whether such a measure would meet with the wholehearted approval of Colorado's citizens. Even though bell-ringing salesmen may, at times, be a nuisance, the voters might be hesitant to destroy the jobs of thousands of persons. Farm products are widely sold by the door-to-door method, and both urban and rural residents might strenuously object to an ordinance aimed at peddlers.

Depression years brought a notable increase in the numbers of peddlers. When all other jobs were closed, a man, or a woman, might at least try his hand at selling. It was always possible to pick up a kit and work on a commission basis.

The result was an invasion on housewives, whose daily routines became punctuated with frequent knocks on the door. The same depression that sent the venders out on the road had curtailed the buying power of the housekeeper.

The vendors themselves, in most cases, will be responsible for any actions taken against them. If their soliciting is courteous and not too frequent, if they can take "no" for an answer, householders will not be likely to rise against them. When peddlers' activities become a downright nuisance to the community, the residents can hardly be blamed for passing ordinances.

No More Barnacles

They have developed a new kind of paint for ocean-going vessels that will very likely do away with barnacles—which is probably a Good Thing.

Sea-faring men have never felt very kindly toward barnacles. The persistent crustaceans have a most annoying habit of hanging onto the hulls of boats and going along just for the ride—all of which wouldn't be so bad if they didn't cut down the speed of the vessel.

But to people who have never been any closer to the high seas than the park lagoon, this promised developments is just a little saddening. Barnacles and tough first mates are part of the stock-in-trade of sea romance. Never having met a barnacle personally, the average landlubber regards it as an integral part of his marine lore.

Yet, if this new barnacle-less solution makes sailors happier, stay-at-homes can scarcely complain in their own selfish interests.

The attention of the people of the United States is again switching back to the tangle of domestic affairs from European troubles.—Kenneth F. Simpson, G. O. P. national committeeman from New York.

Any great story that has been going for 1,000 years must have something and is good for another 1,000 years. The hard thing is to get such a story started.—John Erskine, American writer.

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON—Four years ago, when the Republican National Committee met to make its convention decisions, the selection of the party's nominee was practically all over but the shouting. There was only one name on the lips of insiders—Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas.

At the Committee's meeting last week the situation was far different. This year the field is wide open, with a small army of candidates scrambling anxiously for delegates and no one with the remotest idea what the outcome of the hot race will be. But the name Landon is still prominent on every insider's tongue, although not in the role of an aspirant. He closed this door with decisive finality as far back as December, 1937.

So today, the big question mark overhanging Republican ranks is: "Whom is Landon for?" Behind this widespread conjecture is one of the most interesting personal triumphs in recent political history.

Alf Landon today is a far more significant national figure than he was as the GOP presidential standard bearer.

His good sportsmanship in defeat, his modesty, his unfailing good nature and homey wit, his readiness to lay aside partisanship to serve his country in times of crises, and his disinterested efforts to rehabilitate his party along liberal and constructive lines—all have won him an influence unequalled by any other Republican.

While a public endorsement by Hoover is shunned by the GOP candidates, there isn't one of them who wouldn't jubilantly welcome such a declaration from Landon—if it could be obtained. It would mean a groundswell of strength which would practically ensure its recipient a place on the party's ticket.

Country Gentleman

A little stouter, his sparse brown hair streaked with gray, with a contagious laugh and a passion for old, disreputable hats, Alf Landon today is one of the greatest assets of his party.

His white-pillared home on the outskirts of Topeka has become a Mecca for the young, up-and-coming GOP leaders. From all over the country they come to listen to his salty counsel. Standing before his high fireplace, vestless (he hates vests), his hands under his coattails, he encourages them as an older brother.

The Landon of today is the same Landon before he zoomed into national prominence. He still rises at dawn, still is careful to close cattle gates behind him in crossing the prairie, still respectfully calls William Allen White, "Mr. White," and is still one of the best pitch hands in the Middle West. His good nature and drawling humor are never-failing.

A month after his crashing defeat, when asked why he wasn't going fishing in a Republican state, he replied with a grin, "Because it's too hard to find that kind of a state." The following year, while returning home in a driving rain he slipped and fell in crossing a pasture. Telling friends about the incident, he laughed:

"Yes, sir, it sure was funny. Exactly a year from the night I was nominated for president, I was flat on my face in a Kansas ditch."

Grown Up

William Allen White, sage student of politics and men, recently observed that few figures in American history have grown in defeat as Alf Landon. Several factors are responsible for this development.

One is Landon's deep sense of humility. It is a common frailty among men who reach high political eminence to develop messianic complexes; to consider themselves endowed with special attributes and divine ukase to impose their theories on the rest of mankind. But not Landon.

He doesn't consider himself different from other folks nor entrusted with a holy mission. He is a simple American who loves his country and is ready to do his patriotic best to help promote its prosperity and security. During the 1936 campaign Landon hit hard, but once the fight was over he harbored no grudges, did not immure himself in a sullen aloofness of spiteful resentment.

He lauded the Administration's handling of the delicate Panay bombing incident, readily went to the Pan-American Conference at Lima, and when war broke out in Europe, he endorsed the President's proposal to repeal the arms embargo.

Another factor is Landon's fundamental liberalism. He is not a militant in the sense of the inner circle New Dealers, but he is far to the left of most of the national leaders of his party. In fact, he probably would never have been nominated if some of his views had been known to the reactionary elements that backed him. His break with Hoover late in 1937 was over this issue of liberalism.

Bent on revenging the repudiation of his regime, Hoover conceived the plan of a "midterm convention" to draft a platform which would endorse his economic and fiscal theories. Landon, supported by Colonel Frank Knox and by various congressional leaders, set himself squarely against this scheme and blocked it. But it was characteristic of his sportsmanship that after defeating Hoover on the major issue, Landon went out of his way to soften the blow by agreeing to the creation of the Program Committee—an innocuous but face-saving device.

Landon's Ideals

A third factor that has played a big role in Landon's growth has been his disinterested efforts to rebuild and modernize the Republican party.

This true story is about a clerk who waited nine years for his chance. His name is Olaf Mikkelsen and if you will go to 393 Fourth Avenue, New York, you can meet him and talk to him. Only he isn't a clerk any more. He's the Boss. This is how it happened:

He was born in Denmark and lived there until he was 19 years old. Then he came to this country steerage, and finally got a job as a clerk in an export company which sold articles of American manufacture to foreign countries. Nine slow-footed years limped by, and he was still a clerk. He was still waiting his opportunity to distinguish himself.

Alongside sat a man who had had a great deal more experience, and who was his superior in his office. One day this superior tossed a catalog into the wastebasket. Mikkelsen fished it out thumbing through it. The catalog was for a new invention which had just come on the market—an outboard motor. Suddenly an idea popped into Mikkelsen's head. Why, an outboard motor would be just the thing for the fishermen of Denmark! Then they could be independent of oars and wind. The more he thought about it, the more excited he grew. But before he tried the idea out on the boss, he wrote to the manufacturer and got prices; he wrote to Denmark, and to Scandinavia. He worked on the idea for 5 months.

Finally the boss called him in and said he was spending too much time on the idea and to give it up. Mikkelsen pleaded for more time.

"I'll give you three more weeks," the boss said and Mikkelsen pitched in harder than ever.

The boss called him again; and again Mikkelsen pleaded for more time. The boss gave him a week.

The tide turned. An order for an outboard motor came through. Mikkelsen was delighted. Delighted? He was exuberant!

He hopped a train and went to Milwaukee to see the manufacturer. The company was struggling; hadn't thought of the Scandinavian market. Mikkelsen got a good contract and came home.

The next month ten more orders came in.

In one year he had orders for 5,000 motors.

That catalog he had fished out of the waste basket, was the means of his going into business for himself. He turned in so many orders to the manufacturer that he built a new factory on the strength of these orders. Mikkelsen, the clerk who had waited nine years for his chance, became the biggest outboard motor agent in the world. And that is what he is doing today. But now he has a magnificent showroom on Fourth Avenue, New York.

I asked him if he thought other clerks could find chances for themselves, and he said: "Yes, socner or later. The thing is to keep trying, day after day. Finally your chance will come. I never dreamed mine would come out of the wastebasket — but it did."

Fellowship Of Prayer

Countrymen Of The Sabbath

Sunday, February 25. And as his custom was, he went unto the synagogue on the Sabbath day.—Read Luke 4:16-21.

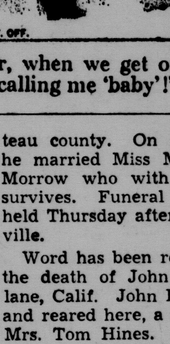
Robert Louis Stevenson (in Travels With a Donkey) has a lovely passage about a Sabbath in French mountain fields and a church there with people kneeling on the steps and the sound of chanting from its dim interior. "It gave me," he said, "a home feeling, for I am a countryman of the Sabbath."

It is good to be just that. For Sabbath-land is a province of the soul. It is rest and peace, worship and friendship, memory and hope and purged desire. Its bells call us to prayer and praise, its healings cure our spiritual sicknesses. It rebukes the restlessness of city streets, it slows a little the grinding wheels of toil. It makes all worshippers fellow countrymen and renews for us our too dim sense of the unseen and enduring. To keep it wisely is to guard the springs of sccial and spiritual integrity. As we hallow the Sabbath we hallow life. The great lights are kindled from its altar fires.

Prayer: "Light of light, enlighten me, now anew the day is dawning; Sun of grace, the shadows flee; Brighten Thou my Sabbath morning; Kindle Thou the sacrifice that upon my lips is lying. Clear the shadows from my eyes, that from every error flying, no strange fire may in me glow."—Amen.

A WRONG IDEA

Anyone who thinks that a chiropractic adjustment is a haphazard performance is mistaken. The point of adjustment is chosen with care and the angle of adjustment is very important but there are several different ways of doing it.



Dr. Roy M. Keller

Frequently in discussing chiropractic methods persons have remarked that "it doesn't look very specific when a vertebra is adjusted from one side and immediately adjusted in the opposite direction." This is NOT done, it only seems so to the patient.

A vertebra has three processes, one backward and one to each side of the center somewhat like a letter T. A crude way to illustrate would be to imagine a child's teeter board with an upright handle in the middle. When the teeter was level this upright handle would be perpendicular, if the right side of the teeter was to the ground, the handle would be to the right side. You could restore it to level by pressing from the right side toward the center on the handle or you could press down on the left end and accomplish the same thing. So it is with the adjusting from different sides, it accomplishes the same thing.

Pres. Mo. State Chiropractic Board.

"I didn't realize what a difference the right type made until I received my new business letterheads and envelopes from Acme Printing and Stationery Co. Every word is so easy to read . . . and the type looks so modern! And they've certainly made a lot of improvement on my layout. You know, I believe that my customers are going to like it, too! I'm going to check up right now and see what other printing work I need. Acme earned it!"

HYDE PARK IS COMING BACK!

WATCH FOR THE BIG NEWS!

Name Of Missouri Girl In Combat

PARKVILLE, Mo., Feb. 24—(AP)—The name of a 17-year-old American girl is being carried into aerial combat in the European war by a newly-organized French air squadron—the Escadrille Virginia.

The girl is Virginia Van Devander, a freshman student here at Park college. She is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. D. J. Van Devander of Edina, Mo.

While in high school at Maryville, Mo., Miss Van Devander began the study of French. Her teacher suggested the course would be more interesting if the students corresponded with young people in France. That's how Virginia met Monsieur Gilbert LaPlanche.

La Planche, also 17 years old, now is in the French air force. When a name was sought for the new squadron, he suggested Escadrille Virginia, after his American friend, and the name was accepted.

Miss Van Devander said the name is all the more appropriate because all the planes used by the squadron are American made.

Ralph Billings Is Convalesing From Injury

Ralph Billings, Smith-Cotton high school senior and cheer leader, whose left eye was injured when he was struck by a snowball thrown by some person unknown, is now convalescing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Beckham, 209 West Seventh street.

The young student is employed on the Walter farm, and has been for five years. When dismissed from the hospital he was taken to the Beckham home on invitation of members of that family.

There were a lot of honest differences on the GOP program committee's report — depending mostly on whether the critics were Democrats or Republicans.

As a thinking person you recognize the need of a regular visual analysis, and we suggest that if your eyes haven't been examined within the past year that you come in now for a thorough checkup.

International Friendship As Ideal Of Girl Scouts

Lord Baden-Powell saw the goals of Scouting as the development of people whose qualities of mind and spirit would lead to better understanding among human beings. And so to friendship across natural boundaries as a step towards permanent peace.

The dream of international friendship is one cherished by the Girl Scouts. One month out of each year, February is dedicated to this ideal.

In their own small way, Girl Scouts make a contribution to better understanding among the peoples of the world. Girl Scouts in Sedalia are now making dolls of all nations which will be featured in a window display in the near future.

Girl Scouts all over the United States correspond with fellow scouts in other countries. They study the gifts of other nations to their community and to their country. They inquire into the origins of their own family and of their friends. Understanding grows as they become acquainted with cities, towns, rivers in other lands—places that have associations because their parents or their friends' parents once lived near them.

Selected Group For Trip

Each summer a group of selected Girl Scouts embark for Switzerland to live for a few weeks at the Girl Scout chalet at Adelboden in company with sister scouts from all corners of the earth. There they learned first hand that language and a variation in customs are the only real differences between themselves and their friends. They come to know that Nanette has an older brother whom she loves dearly. That Jean loves her Scottish moors in the same way that we love our rolling hills, and sweet smelling plains. That Elsa, the Swedish delegate, shy and grave, burns with the desire to serve humanity. That gay, laughing Kati from the land of windmills, worries about favorable trade agreements for her country.

At night, around the council fire, they discuss peace and how they can help further it among their countries. Each group has agreed that first, there must be understanding.

Year after year American girls cross the seas to meet their sisters in Scouting. And each year the nucleus of young women acquainted with the thinking of other nations grows larger.

On their return they spread the news of their happy encampment. The circle of understanding grows wider still.

When misunderstandings arise among those nations typefied by the faces of loving friends, these girls become keepers of the Girl Scout watchword, "Go and find out the facts." Having known Nanette and Jean and Elsa, and Kati they will not believe propaganda. They must have the facts.

America's first business woman, a pharmacist, came from Philadelphia.

Mary Martin's Heart Belongs To Allan!

The Great Victor Herbert

When beautiful Mary Martin was singing "My Heart Belongs to Daddy," she had us wonderng who the lucky fellow was. In Paramount's musical romance-drama, "The Great Victor Herbert," comes the truth—it's Allan Jones, at least for the purposes of the picture. Walter Connolly plays the title role of the celebrated composer and Lee Bowman, Judith Barrett and Susanna Foster are featured in the gay tale of the Broadway of the 1900's. The film opens Tuesday at the Liberty theatre.

That Blonde, Explosive 'Maisie'

Ann Sothern in "Congo Maisie"

The combination of romance, adventure and action which come to the Liberty theatre today promises plenty at the box office for "Congo Maisie," with Ann Sothern and John Carroll. It is a story of Africa up to date. "Congo Maisie" is an American showgirl who is stranded in an African coast town. She encounters a bitter young doctor who regards her as an adventuress. But when she stands beside him through an emergency operation and later holds off a native uprising with her feeble card tricks, the doctor changes his mind. That is the story in brief. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has gone to great lengths to provide authentic atmosphere. The cast has achieved a really fine job.

"Castle on The Hudson" Latest In Uptown Theatre's Parade of Hits Today, Monday & Tuesday

The Uptown's 1940 hit parade, so auspiciously begun with the comedy hit "Brother Rat and a Baby," and the dramatic and exciting "Fighting 69th, continues today, Monday and Tuesday with "Castle on the Hudson," starring John Garfield, Ann Sheridan and Pat O'Brien. Described by audiences who have seen it as a tempestuous love story, "Castle on the Hudson" introduces Garfield and Miss Sheridan as a new romantic team, which seems headed for a long and fiery career. Both dynamic personalities in their own rights, is inevitable that their team work should be tops in exciting romance. The story of "Castle on The Hudson" is essentially one of life and love outside the law, and of two lovers who defy the forces that strive to keep them apart. Both Garfield and Miss Sheridan have highly dramatic roles that give them both the opportunity to display their unusual talents to the hilt. Pat O'Brien, cast as an idealistic reformer, is said to give one of his finest and most serious performances. Feature number two is another rib-tickling comedy in the Torchy Blaine series, "Torchy Plays with Dynamite," with Jane Wyman and Allen Jenkins.

Col. and Mrs. L. M. Monsees Wed 60 Years

Reception For Friends Today At Son's Home

Col. and Mrs. Louis Martin Monsees, pioneer residents of Pettis county, are today observing their sixtieth wedding anniversary, and are at home to their friends from 2 to 5 o'clock this afternoon at the home of their son, Kalo Monsees and Mrs. Monsees, in Smithton.

It was at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, in the year 1880, that Louis Martin Monsees, 21, and Rickey C. Kastens, also 21, were married at the home of the Rev. J. K. Godby.

Rickey C. Kastens was born on a farm in Morgan county and Louis Martin Monsees was born on a farm in Pettis county, just four miles apart. Their families were friends and they played together when they were two years old. That friendship continued and culminated in their romance and marriage.

Their home, Limestone Valley Farm, nationally known because of Mr. Monsees' activities as a breeder of jacks and jennets, has been their home during their entire married life.

Buyers from all over the world have visited Limestone Valley Farm, looking at and making purchases of the fine animals bred there. In 1870 Mr. Monsees obtained his first jack, Toby, for which he paid four dollars in cash, two good pocket knives and a pistol. In 1938 he sold a jack to J. C. Penney for $5,000, the highest price believed paid for a jack.

Mr. and Mrs. Monsees have three sons, N. A. Monsees and Kalo Monsees, of Smithton, and D. O. Monsees, Portland, Texas. Another child died at the age of three years.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. McMullin, 1901 South Harrison avenue, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary Ruth, to Carl R. Yessen, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Yessen, 306 North Quincy avenue.

The marriage will take place Wednesday, March 6.

Two couples tied for high score of the north and south players, at the bridge tournament at the Country club Friday afternoon. They were Mrs. W. E. Pearl and Mrs. David Henderson, with Mrs. J. C. Griffin substituting for Mrs. Henderson, and Mrs. George H. Scruton, and Mrs. Roy Snyder.

Mrs. J. C. Campbell and Mrs. Henry C. Salveter were high of the east and west players, with Mrs. David Carter substituting for Mrs. Campbell.

The final games of the tournament will be played next Friday.

Mary Louise Chesser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Chesser, 320 North Prospect avenue, observed her twelfth birthday Friday evening, by entertaining a number of her little friends at her home.

The children enjoyed games and refreshments, and Mary Louise received many nice gifts.

Her guests were Roseanna Brasfield, Marilyn Morris, Patsy Scott, Paul Hedderich, Jimmy Henry, Maurine Scruton, Lois Steelman, Junior Steelman, Kenneth Steelman, Lewis Steelman, Patty McCarty, Jean Anderson, Curg Starkey, William Arnold, Bernadean Anderson, Kenneth Hunt, J. D. Hyatt, Betty Joanne Alexander, Lucile Alexander.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Highleyman, 316 West Fourth street, have as their guests their son, W. B. Highleyman, his wife and their three children, "Bill," "Ginger," and "B. J." of Hartford, Conn.

Miss Grace Smith, daughter of N. A. Smith, 1½ miles scuth of Smithton and Roy Hunt, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hunt, of near Windsor, were married at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening at the Methodist parsonage in Smithton. The Rev. Edwin J. Weiss read the ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of the Smithton high school and attended Central Missouri State Teachers' College, Warrensburg, and has taught the first grade at Washington school for several years from which position she resigned at the first of this year.

They will reside on the bridegroom's farm, near Windsor, where he has a new modern home, completely furnished for her.

The following guests were present: Misses Shirley Kanter, Dorothy Ann Reed, Ruth Ann Botts, Daisy Carol Culley, Rae Caroline Garrett, Donnie Marie Robinson, and Vivia Van Dyne.

Cardinals-Cincinnati Will Meet Cuba Club In Exhibition Game Last Of March

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 24—(AP)—Major league baseball players, mindful that the start of another pennant chase is just around the corner, began drifting into Florida's 11 spring training camps this week for the Grapefruit circuit's annual conditioning campaign.

Also assembling in the sunshine belt were minor leaguers from 17 clubs, although their actual drills were not scheduled to start for another week. Newcomers to the list of 28 visiting clubs, the largest in the state's history, are the New York Giants and the Cleveland Indians.

The Florida Grapefruit league exhibition games will start March 8, with the Brooklyn Dodgers playing the National league champion Cincinnati Reds here. From then until early in April more than 200 games are scheduled.

Last year's attendance for the circuit topped 100,000 for 160 engagements and that mark is expected to climb to 150,000 this season.

A highlight of the spring schedule will be the all-star encounter here March 17, for benefit of the Finnish Relief Fund. The New York Yankees' Joe McCarthy will pilot the American league entry, while Bill McKechnie, soft-spoken manager of the Cincinnati Reds, will direct the National league stars.

Cards-Reds To Cuba

Two of the major circuit clubs will go to Cuba, each for a three-game series at Havana. Cincinnati will meet a team of Cuban all-stars March 22, 23 and 24, and the St. Louis Cardinals will follow, playing the same opponents March 28, 29 and 30.

The training assignments for the major leaguers follows:

Stan Williamson Named By Sooners

NORMAN, Okla., Feb. 24—(AP)—Stan Williamson, who resigned recently as assistant football coach at Kansas State college, was named line coach at the University of Oklahoma today by Head Coach Tom Stidham.

Dale Arbuckle, Oklahoma City Central high school coach was named assistant coach; Doc Erskine, former freshman coach, was shifted to the backfield spot left vacant when Dewey "Snorter" Luster resigned, and Jap Haskell, former line and baseball coach, was named freshman coach.

Haskell will continue his work with the baseball team. Pete Smith remains end coach.

In announcing the shifts, Stidham declared:

"I am very happy over addition of these two boys to our staff. I think it will give us a grand staff and we will try to continue to give Oklahoma fans the kind of football they deserve."

Stidham declined to reveal salary figures or the length of the contracts signed with Williamson and Arbuckle.

Spring practice, Stidham said, will start the first week in March, weather permitting.

Seabiscuit Scores Spectacular Win

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 24—(AP)—Old Man Seabiscuit scored a spectacular triumph for his first victory of a gallant comeback campaign today by winning the $10,000 San Antonio Handicap and moving back into the forefront of contenders for the top prize of the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap a week away.

Cheered to the echo by a crowd of 33,000, the mighty stake king of 1938 equaled the track record for the mile and one-sixteenth race and finished two and a half lengths ahead of his stablemate, Kayak II.

It was a double triumph for the flashing red and white silks of Charles S. Howard's racing star for the two, in finishing one-two, redeemed themselves in smashing style from the sixth and eighth places they ran one week ago.

New Orleans Open Is Led By Ben Hogan

McSpaden Is Second One Stroke Behind Shooting a 139

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24—(AP)—Canny Ben Hogan of White Plains, N. Y., finished just before the rains started today, then watched the rest of the field struggle through showers in a vain effort to match the 68-70—138 which gave him a lead at the half way mark in the $10,000 New Orleans Open golf tournament.

The only man close was Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., who played in the same threesome and added a 69 to yesterday's 70 for a 139.

Tied for third at 142 were Morty Furgo of Sharon, N. Y., whose 69 today pulled him up among the leaders; Lloyd Mangrum of Oak Park, Ill., and Slammin' Sam Snead of Shawnee, Pa.

Young Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., who took a first round lead yesterday with a 67, wobbled over the third nine today in a five over par 42, but steadied to beat par by one stroke on the incoming stretch at 34. His 76 put him in a tie at 143 with Bud Willamson of Fort Wayne, Ind., and Tony Penna of Dayton, Ohio.

Still far from the fore were U. S. Open Champion Byron Nelson and Jimmy Demaret of Houston, Tex., the season's most successful tournament player until this meet. Each took a 73 on top of a 74 yesterday.

The field will be rednced to 76 pros, those with 155 or less, and the 28 low amateurs for the two concluding rounds tomorrow and Monday.

Harry Cooper of Chicago, winner of the tourney in 1938, dropped out today because of influenza.

Wilford Wehrle of Chicago remained low amateur by duplisating yesterday's 73 for a 146.

'Me and Paul' Combination Is Through

'Daffy' Quits Giants; 'Diz' Doesn't Like Contract With Cubs

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT

DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 24—(AP)—Two hulking country characters who gave baseball some of its greatest moments—Diz and Daffy Dean—neared the finish tonight.

The solid combination of "Me and Paul" is half broken.

Only a few days hence and Jerome Herman (Dizzy) Dean may follow Paul (Daffy) Dean into tragic retirement. Ol' Diz is only 29; Paul, just 26.

Tired pitching arms, arms that threw big country boy hearts behind every pitch, have dragged the brothers from a peak they barely grasped before tumbling back into the shadows.

Paul, a mellow kid who pitched a no-hit, no-run game in the National League when only 19 back in 1934, quietly quit the game over in Russellville, Ark., a couple of nights ago, telephoning Manager Bill Terry in the middle of the night to give his decision.

Diz Confirms Retirement

Brother Diz, here in Dallas, confirmed Paul's retirement today.

"Don't know just what happened," he said, "but it seems Paul wasn't quite satisfied with his Giant contract."

Diz, himself, isn't satisfied with the Chicago Cub's offer of $10,000 and is on the verge of leaving baseball for the life of a gentleman farmer.

The story behind the Dean brothers isn't the dollars and cents squabble over a contract. Diz talks it and quieter Paul echoes it meekly, but neither digs down to the truth.

Their cunning is gone. The power behind their six foot, two inch frames is still good for most anything but throwing baseballs. Both threw their arms away in a burst to the top.

Diz started pitching his arm and heart away while a soldier boy down at San Antonio, Texas, in the late twenties. He tried out for the San Antonio team in the Texas League and got nowhere.

Dean Persistence

The manager irked by his persistence, grabbed Dean's tattered glove, threw it over the fence and urged him to follow it.

Dean followed that glove—straight to baseball's loftiest heights.

Someone bought him out of the army and he started pitching sandlot baseball in San Antonio. Soon he was with Houston and one of the greatest pitchers of modern times was on his way.

In 1931 the not-so-dizzy one won 26, lost ten and headed for the St. Louis Cards. Today his earned run average of 1.53 and 11 shutouts in a single season still stands in the Texas league.

Diz got 30 triumphs and only seven losses with the Cards in '34—but then he started asking too much of a castiron arm. He worked out of turn through love of the game and a desire to win. Finally, in 1937, he began wearing out.

His last great gesture was in the '38 world series when he shackled the Yankees for 8 1-3 innings with nothing but courage and dead-eye aim for the corners. Diz may have enough left for another season, but the doubt is greater than the probability.

A Smart Talker

Diz is loquacious, but he isn't a half bad guy. Behind his talk, and pretty smart talk when you figure the bales of publicity it got him, he is a kindly overgrown boy.

Paul's story is no different. He pitched with every ounce when he pitched; burned himself out at 24. He started with Springfield in '31, had terrific years with Columbus in '32 and '33 and fell in step with Diz on the Cardinal staff by winning 19 games in both the '34 and '35 seasons. But by 1937 he was lame. He's a swell sincere person.

Now both are figuring on going back to farming—still in their twenties.

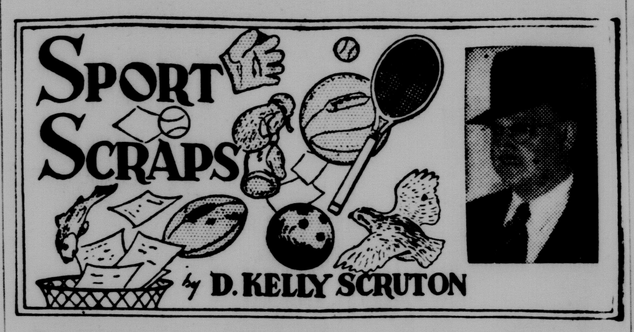
Baseball had a great act in "Me and Paul."

Maurice "Clipper" Smith To Stay At Villanova College

VILLANOVA, Pa., Feb. 24—(AP)—Maurice J. (Clipper) Smith, who announced two weeks ago that he was leaving his football coaching at Villanova college to take a similar position at Loyola University of Los Angeles, said today he planned to stay at Villanova.

Smith and his assistant, Vincent McNally, said they "have signfied our intentions of staying at Villanova" if they can withdraw from their commitments to Loyola.

No single food is conductive to slenderness, and none is, of itself, fattening. Pure whole milk, paradoxically, is important in overcoming malnutrition and underweight, and in promoting slenderness and health.



Smith-Cotton Tigers finished their basketball season in one of the worst slumps any high school team in Sedalia has ever experienced. They slipped through with three victories, two of which meant little to the school's athletic prestige and only one in the Central Missouri League conference—Kirksville.

The CELLAR position of the team is all Sedalia's—undisputed and no alibies offered. But a better arrangement might have been made to let the Tigers get a comparison of practice as other school teams. The boys just didn't know everything they should have known to win cage contests. They just couldn't "cut the buck" in 1940.

A brief history of what went on behind the games: First, one and a half hours practice in the afternoon when the practice should have run at least twice as much time; crowded out of the gym because of intra-mural games, and many afternoons the boys in the various classes failed to show up for practice and the gym was idle, but the Tigers were forbidden its use "just in case some of the boys showed"; the gym is used also for various other activities which are absolutely necessary to the school program.

Not being too critical of the school arrangement, but if Sedalia is to experience better basketball, basketball say like it used to be back fifteen and twenty years ago, then another gym must be built to accomodate the necessary varsity activity. Sedalians must realize they have one of the largest high schools in central Missouri and they should realize that accomodations must be made to carry on with the school activities.

As a matter of fact the school is too small now and more class rooms are necessary. With a steady year-to-year increase in students then expansion is necessary. If the school board in the future sees fit to enlarge with more class rooms, then also include a second gymnasium.

The battle of words has started between the Conservation Federation clubs of Missouri and the Farmers' and Sportsmen's Alliance over the recall petitions of the Conservation Commission of Missouri. Yes it is too bad that already the personal attacks have been indulged in and from the first appearances there will be many regretable words expressed before the smoke clears away.

True as it may be that recall petitions are being circulated on the commission, yet the Farmers' and Sportsmen's feels this is the only way to bring about fairness to all. While on the other hand the Conservation Federation feels the difficulties can be ironed out to the satisfaction of everyone.

The executive secretary of the Conservation Federation of Missouri, Mr. Ted Butler, at a meeting of the Greene county club last Wednesday night fired what one might call the first "personal blast." Mr. Butler says the new organization is being sponsored by the LAKE RESORT OWNERS AND THAT THEY ARE "the chief objectors to the present wildlife setup." On the other hand I personally have heard and listened to many sportsmen and farmers who favor SOME OF THE OBJECTIONS of the new organization.

Mr. Butler declared the new organization is being backed by those who are interested in only a commercial view point, while on the other hand it appears on the surface that some of those who favor SOME OF THE RULES as written by the commission likewise are backed by some interested in a very similar manner. There are two sides to every subject and this discussion between Missouri's two sporting organizations certainly has two sides. Both have good and substantial arguments in favor of their points, yet to the outsider some of the arguments from the two "trenches" are very absurd.

In retaliation to the statement of Mr. Butler, W. C. Cain, temporary chairman of the state organization of Farmers' and Sportsmen's Alliance, said in part: "The resort owners comprise less than one-percent of this organization. There are more farmer's signatures supporting the organization than any other group; second are townspeople."

Apparently the new group is receiving much support from out state, more than was anticipated. While on the other hand the activity of this group has instilled into the Conservation clubs a little life. The various county organizations are beginning to resume meetings. Their attendance has shown a decided increase over what they were previously.

Certainly if those men who just take out a membership in the Conservation clubs because some other member approaches and asks for the fee, would take interest, attend meetings, then probably these troubles would never have come about.

As I said a week ago two organizations are better than one, and with the combined discussions over these rules some remedy can be brought about to serve all the people and not just a few of the people.

Around here the biggest "HOWL" being raised over the new rulings by the town sportsmen, or fishermen, is the minnow law. These fishermen declare they want creek chubs for bait, and not gold fish as prescribed by the commission. But if one is not physically able to wade the creek and sein for his minnows he cannot buy them, but must use gold fish, which most fishermen say "just won't do the work."

Other fishermen who don't know the first thing about fly-fishing can't go fishing on March 15, but those well-trained fishermen who know some of the angles of flipping the fly can go to the state controlled parks and fish for trout. The only "bank fisherman" just has to wait until their season opens. This rule is rather unfair and shows some preference to commercialize only through the benefit of the state controlled parks.

Plan International Baseball Alliance

WICHITA, Kas., Feb. 24—(AP)—Formation of the International Alliance of semi-pro baseball with Mexico, Cuba, Canada, Puerto Rico, Hawaii and the United States as members, was announced today by Ray Dumont, president of the National Semi-Pro Baseball Congress.

High commissioners of the sport in each of the countries comprise the International Board. They are: Kan Yen Chun, Hawaii; L. Ochoa, Mexico; Ramon Palserio, Puerto Rico; Laurance Doucet, Canada; and George Sisler, the United States.

Lack of time to prepare for the event will prevent a tournament between the winners of the various national champions this fall, Dumont said, but such a meet is being planned for 1941.

The United States champions of 1940, however, again will play the Puerto Rico champions.

Smith-Cotton Is Victim Of MMA 36-21

Cellar Position Goes To Tigers; Three Games Won

Showing their superiority from the start by grabbing an early lead and holding to it the Missouri Military Academy defeated the Smith-Cotton Tigers basketball team 36 to 21 here Friday night.

The game ended the season for the Sedalians and landed them in the cellar position of the conference. Coach Donald Devanport, said last night that, "the boys played a good offensive game, but were unable to hit their shots".

The Colonels repeated their task of taking an early lead, as in the contest here Thursday night, and built up a half time advantage of 21 to 13.

The Tigers have only three victories to their credit for the campaign. They defeated the Alumni, Green Ridge and Kirksville, the latter the only conference team.

Melvin Winrod and Tommy Sanders did not play in the final game since both were still on the ailing list. Bud Michaelis and Joe Pierce started the game as forwards with Sam Switzer at center and James Gardner and Cliff Logan at the guard positions.

Ireland, Mexico forward took scoring honors with 18 points. Michaelis and Gardner led the Tigers with 8 markers each. Don Faurot, head football coach at Missouri University, was the referee.

California Loses To Waxers 30-29

The California "Pintos." independent team of that city, who until Friday night had won 20 straight basketball games were stopped by the Van Brite Waxers in an exciting contest 30-29.

Capt. "Bunny" Taylor of the Waxers made up for the "set-up" he missed in the Windsor game the night before, during the closing seconds; when he sank a free throw just before this game ended, to put the game on ice.

Albert Stiner also played a very splendid game—first of all, by holding Jacobs, California's "hot rock" forward to only three free throws, while he himself scored 9 points.

Taylor was high scorer of the evening with 15 points. Stiner was runner up for the Waxers with 9 points and Dorzap and Trieber both had 9 points for California.

Wesley Fry Signs With Northwestern

EVANSTON, Ill., Feb. 24—(AP)—Wesley Fry, former head coach at Kansas State College, has returned to the Big Ten—scene of his colorful and successful career as a college athlete 15 years ago.

Fry was added today to the coaching staff at Northwestern University as varsity backfield coach under Head Tutor Lynn Waldorf. Fry resigned at Kansas State several weeks ago after a squabble with Stan Williamson, a member of his staff.

Woof Woof First At Hileah Park

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 24—(AP)—Jock Whitney's Woof Woof practically made a solo of the Flamingo Stakes at Hialeah Park today, taking the lead over 13 other three-year-olds at the first bend and holding it all the way to finish a half length ahead of Prompt Pay in the mile and one furlong classic.

By winning, Woof Woof added a pleasant $22,450 to the Whitney family treasury.

Observers were not particularly impressed by Woof Woof's victory and there was no immediate cry to make him a contender in the Kentucky Derby. His time of 1:50 1-5 on a fast track was well off the Hialeah record of 1:48 1-5 held jointly by Stagehand and Brevity.

Table Tennis Tourney Will Begin March 1

Competition Expected To Be Stronger This Year Than Previously

The annual Ping Pong or Table Tennis tournament for Sedalia's indoor sports players has been scheduled. The preliminary rounds are March 1-4 inclusive while the quarter-finals, semi-finals and finals will be played on March 5.

Joe Benson, coach at Smith-Cotton high school, announced entrance fees can be given Miss Nola Lee Wright, Miss Virginia Dugan or himself. Registrations must be made on or before Wednesday, February 28. The brackets will be drawn and announced on Thursday, February 29.

Various players who have tennis tables will entertain the players throwing open their equipment for the players to play off the preliminary games. The quarter, semi-finals and finals, will be played in the Smith-Cotton auditorium.

Mr. Benson announced a beautiful trophy would be presented to the champion, while awards will also be made to the second, third and consolation place winners. The awards are well worth battling for over the green tables and no doubt the competition will be stronger this year than ever before.

Several new men teachers who have been added to the local school system the past year are players and indicate they will upset all dope out on the local contestants. A number of the new players lay claim to honors in the sport in other towns and hope to put their names among the best in Sedalia.

The semi-finalists of the 1939 tournament are to be "seeded" on the brackets, Mr. Benson said in such a manner that all players will have a fair opportunity to battle through to the top places.

Cards Pitching Very Effective

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 25—Much has been said concerning the batting power of the 1939 St. Louis Cardinals but little mention has been made of another department of last year's team that must rank among the most effective in local National league history — the pitching.

Cardinal hurlers turned in 18 shutouts last season and a brief survey of the records reveals that number as more than any Red Bird mound staff has accounted for in the past 15 years. And remember that Cardinal teams won five National league pennants and three World Championships in that period of time.

At the same time it is noteworthy that no team, with the exception of the 1936 Chicago Cubs who also had 18, has accounted for that many shutouts in the National league since the New York Giants' mound brigade shut out opponents 23 times in 1933. That was the year, it will be recalled, in which Carl Hubbell turned in 10 shutouts and Hal Schumacher had 7.

The Cardinal total of 18 last season was divided more or less evenly among Red Bird pitchers. McGee led with 4; Warneke, Weiland, and Curt Davis turned in 3 each; Cooper and Bowman accounted for 2; and Sunkel delivered one.

Cardinal pitching in 1939 may have been overshadowed by the team's batting but the records do not show that to be necessarily true.

Al Davis To Get Shot At Armstrong's Crown

Welcome The Prospect Of A Fight On Move

W. C. Cain States Alliance Mostly Of Farmers

W. C. Cain, manager of the Cash Hardware and Paint Company, in Sedalia, and temporary chairman of the Farmers' and Sportsmen's Alliance, states: "I am highly pleased with the interest that the sportsmen and farmers of Missouri are taking in our organization and I can promise some very interesting developments within a very few weeks."

He stated that the alliance would be very much pleased with any controversy which would bring out the good and the bad points of the new regulations passed by the Conservation Commission regarding game and fish, and which for the most part, in his opinion, are bitterly opposed by the people.

In reply to the accusation that the Alliance was mostly composed of resort owners who were sponsoring the alliance for selfish ends, he stated: "The resort owners comprise less than one per cent of this organization. There are more farmer signatures on our petitions than those of any other group; and second are the townspeople." The Alliance," he said: "has the interests of the farmers foremost in its objectives, since the farmer is the natural raiser and protector of game. And the farmer is the one who can and will put a stop to all hunting and fishing, if the present laws, which are unfair to him, are not changed."

"The filling stations, restaurants, farmers and sporting goods dealers are the types of business which are the hardest hit financially by the new regulations. It is conservatively estimated that the total loss of these businesses each year will be well over a million dollars as a result of loss of sales and markets caused by the new regulations. The resort owners and operators are hard hit too, many of them will be forced out of business."

"The people of Missouri," he said: "do not favor absolute and dictatorial powers granted to a few men in the Conservation Commission, and they are exercising their constitutional rights in circulating recall petitions which will put this issue to a vote this fall."

"If the conservation commission is right, and if it has acted fairly in its dealings with the citizens of Missouri it need not be afraid of the result. The people are the fairest judge and jury, and in the end we will have better understanding, better laws, and a majority rule. The main objective of the Farmers' and Sportsmen's Alliance is to see that all classes of people get a square deal."

Women Golfers To Kansas City In Fall

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 24—(AP)—Mrs. George Donnovan of Kansas City, newly elected president of the Missouri Women's Golf association, said today the 1940 champion would be determined over the Milburn Country club course here, September 16 to 21.

Other 1940 officers of the organization are: Mrs. Chester Keating of St. Joseph, first vice-president; Miss Iva Mae Pilcher of Mexico, second vice-president; Mrs. Raymond Sievers of St. Louis, third vice-president; Mrs. Joseph Quigley of Kansas City, secretary; and Mrs. E. B. Craig of Kansas City, treasurer.

Mrs. George H. Sido of St. Louis, is the new chairman of the advisory committee. Others on the committee are Mrs. Craig and Mrs. H. T. Ashton of St. Louis.

Admits Wedding Night Slaying

TACOMA, Wash., Feb. 24—(AP)—Undersheriff Clyde Knowles said tonight John Ord, 42, tall, gaunt Tacoma fireman, had confessed the brutal wedding night slaying of the man who successfully had courted his common law wife.

He denied, however, the officer added, any connection with the fire that turned the couple's honeymoon cottage into a funeral pyre after the bride and a third man had been wounded.

The body of Hale R. Nosler, 56, former president of the Washington State Elks Association, was removed last night from the ruins of his suburban home. His bride, Myra, 36, reported by Knowles to have lived with Ord for ten years, clung to life in a Tacoma hospital, a bullet wound in her abdomen.

King Pomeroy, 50, who lived in Nosler's home, was beaten severely with a poker.

Ord was arrested after taking Mrs. Nosler to a hospital.

Knowles said both Mrs. Nosler and Pomeroy signed statements that Ord invaded the home, killed the bridegroom and injured them.

Candidacies In City Election Are Discussed

police force, Harry Anderson, night chief, and Laurence Englund are among those who will seek the Democratic nomination for chief of police. While the name of Cecil Glenn is prominently mentioned as a Republican, it is said to be doubtful if Glenn would leave his present position as truant officer to enter the race.

N. L. Nelson, Democrat, the present city collector and Wm. B. Hert, Jr., special delinquent tax collector for the city, are among the Democrats mentioned for the office of collector. Herbert Berlin, a brother-in-law of Nelson, has declared himself a Republican candidate for the nomination.

For the position of assessor the names of Ed Gorman, incumbent, and Ernest D. Grinstead are mentioned among the Democrats. There are no Republicans yet in the field.

Two Democratic women, Miss Jean Slack and Mrs. A. E. Steele, rumor has as candidates, and on the Republican side Mrs. Paul Simon.

Hitler Lists Three Nations In Speech As His Friends

man people are destined to be slaves of the English and French."

Significantly, Hitler reverted to his early-war practice of leaving France almost out of his strictures.

Going back to 1914, he intimated Germany would have won the World War had he been at the helm. The nation's leaders then, he declared, were "second rate." But today—"we all know that neither militarily nor economically can Germany be defeated. The decisive thing is leadership."

Claims God Ally

More than in any recent speech, the fuehrer claimed God as his ally—the ally of the German people.

Greater secrecy than ever surrounded Hitler's speech tonight. No announcement of his presence in the Hofbrau hall was made until he actually marched through the doors. Before that, in Berlin, authorized sources declined even to say that he had gone to Munich, and this forenoon the flag of the chief of state still flew from the Reich's chancellery.

LONDON, Feb. 24—(AP)—Official circles in London were described as regarding the speech of Adolf Hitler today as "one on which it is not worth commenting."

Insistent That F. D. R. Speak Up

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—(AP)—Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.) an administration supporter said today that "It would be better for all concerned" if President Roosevelt announced at once his attitude toward a third term.

The Alabama senator, who is supporting his brother, Speaker Bankhead, for the Democratic presidential nomination, told reporters:

"The president should give expression to what he is going to do. I don't think there is much disagreement on the point that he should make his intentions known. It would be better for all concerned, including the president, if he would make a statement."

Bankhead asserted that if Mr. Roosevelt should seek renomination then he can have it without much question." The Alabama senator added:

"People don't like second choices and as long as Mr. Roosevelt is at large in the situation there is no way for the people to make up their minds on other candidates. There can be no test of sentiment so long as the president remains silent."

Inspirer Of The Kellogg Pact Dies

NEW YORK, Feb. 24—(AP)—Smith Freeman Reavis, 46, for 20 years an editor and writer of the Associated Press, died at Post Graduate hospital tonight following an operation a week ago to remove a blood clot.

He was internationally recognized as the man who, as an Associated Press correspondent in Paris, inspired the Kellogg-Briand pact outlawing war.

Although Reavis always deprecated his part in the history-making development, the French government issued a book giving the documentary background of the treaty—disclosing Reavis as the "behind-the-scenes" instigator of the pact which was signed by virtually every civilized nation in the world.

Sweden Would Halt Gold Flow

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 24—(AP)—The Swedish government today summoned an extraordinary special session of parliament for Sunday to revise foreign exchange regulations and halt the flow of Sweden's gold reserves to foreign banks.

Whether the Rigsdag also will discuss the critical foreign political situation growing out of the bombing of the frontier town of Pajala last Wednesday, was problematical. However, Soviet Russia's denial that Russian planes carried out the raid—as alleged by Sweden—was believed to have been one of the matters which caused Foreign Minister Christian Gunther to defer his trip to Copenhagen, where Scandinavian foreign ministers are meeting.

The crime, committed June 22, 1936, shocked Michigan. Five days after his disappearance Bobby's body was found in a river. Mrs. Moshier waived examination in justice court today and was bound over to circuit court under $5,000 bond.

Police said a neighbor's suspicion had been aroused by a remark by Mrs. Moshier and that her arrest followed.

'Make Believe' Vote Goes To FDR

DONALSONVILLE, Ga., Feb. 24—(AP)—President Franklin D. Roosevelt received a vote of "landslide proportions" to head again the Democratic ticket in a make-believe Seminole county preference primary here today.

The President was the first choice of 841 voters with Vice-President John Garner second with 18. Secretary of State Cordell Hull received 3 votes for first choice; National Democratic Chairman James A. Farley, 2; Senator Wheeler of Montana, 2; Social Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt, 2, and Senator Walter F. George of Georgia, 1.

The George vote was a "write-in" on the printed ballot.

As a second choice candidate, in case Roosevelt should decline a third term, Secretary of State Hull was given a substantial lead totaling 245. The President received only one vote for second choice, Chairman Farley 154, Garner 78, Wheeler 11, McNutt 9, George 3, and former Governor Eugene Talmadge of Georgia 1, a write-in.

The vote, although unofficial and not binding in any way, attracted attention in that it was the first public expression by actual ballot on potential Democratic presidential candidates. So keen was the local interest that 868 of the 1,500 eligible voters marked the printed ballots, a number equal to the average regular primary.

Make Study On Fish Control

VERSAILLES, Feb. 23—Following a meeting of the Lake Ozark association here Tuesday for discussion of the state conservation commission's fish management suggestion, a similar meeting of all commercial and civic organizations of this district will be held here next Wednesday.

This proposal includes open season the year around, except in some coves which are adaptable to spawning by reason of depth and food supply which will be closed from January 1 to June 15 to all fishing. It also provides for improvement in food supply.

Everyone in this area is vitally interested in the success of this program. At the meeting next week the speakers will be representatives of the conservation commission.

Plan To Guard On Neutrality

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 24.—(AP)—A program of "parallel action" to enable Denmark, Norway and Sweden to guard their neutrality under the most threatening conditions they have faced in years was visualized by Norwegian Foreign Minister Halvdan Koht as he arrived today for talks with representatives of the other two Scandinavian nations.

Kohrt, who said that "the sharpened sea warfare" would be one of the principal topics discussed, went into conference at once with the Danish Foreign Minister, Dr. Peter Munch.

The talks are expected to get under way in earnest after the arrival of Sweden's Foreign Minister, Christian Gunther, who was detained in Stockholm by a special meeting of the Riksdag (parliament) summoned for tomorrow.

The meeting of the foreign ministers finds their nations vitally affected by war at sea which already has cost them more than 50 ships and the lives of 600 seamen.

$15 a Week

by Louise Holmes

Copyright, 1940. NEA, Inc.

YESTERDAY: Ann writes her answer to "Lonely" but does not mail it. At work, she discusses her prospects with Mrs. Pringle, owner of the shop. Ann feels she is caught in the $15 a week class—a class without a future. At noon she hurries to the 10-cent store to buy things for a new dress. The friendly clerk remarks at the striking resemblance between Ann and debutante Irene Temple.

CHAPTER III

THE 10-cent store girl continued to compare the pictured likeness of Irene Temple, debutante, with the equally lovely face of Ann Brown, $15 assistant to Mrs. Pringle.

"Yes sir," she kept saying. "Uh-huh—"

"Let me see." Ann examined the newspaper clipping. "Oh. I don't think so," she said.

"I saw it plain as anything at first. Yeah, I like the dress fine. You can wear that kind. Me, I'm too fat."

Ann paid for her purchases and left the store. She walked up one side of State street and down the other, looking into windows, expertly noting styles and trends, adapting them to her own use. Her mind was divided. Half of it reacted to the stunning displays, the other half played with the thought of K295.

Even among the crowds on the streets, Ann felt isolated, alone. She paused on the library steps, watched the passing throng. Surely, among all of those hurrying people, there should be one friendly face.

She returned to the hat shop on the hour. She waited on several customers during the afternoon and delivered a number of hats. Ann was acquiring a following and Mrs. Pringle wisely gave her a free hand. It was after 4 when the $15-a-week subject came up again. Ann said something complimentary about Mrs. Pringle's success in having a shop of her own.

"I might better have stayed where I was, times like they are," the older woman told her. "I was sure of steady pay there. How much do you think this shop cleared last year?"

"You needn't tell me if—"

"I don't mind. It amounted to less than $65 a month."

"That's not so good, but there's your husband's salary—"

"Yes, I have Joe." She spoke wearily. "When I married him 30 years ago he was delivering for the BonTon cleaners. He's still delivering for them—at $12.50."

Ann frowned. "Then you can't get out," she said, as if to herself.

"Most of us stay where we are," Mrs. Pringle admitted.

ANN went home on a crowded El train. She hurried through a sketchy supper and packed the dull blue material, the 10-cent store findings and a pair of scissors in a cardboard box. It was early when she started for the Center.

One reason why Ann lived in that particular neighborhood was because of its proximity to the Center. It was a community house and offered many advantages to the ambitious, among them a sewing room. For 25 cents an evening you could use the electric sewing machines and be helped with cutting and fitting by Lola, a veteran seamstress.

Ann found a table in the sewing room and, with the picture of Irene Temple in front of her, cut into the blue material. She scoffed at patterns; they required altogether too much yardage. It took managing to get the dress out of the short length of blue, she figured and planned, piecing where seams would go unnoticed, she snipped and basted.

Lola came to survey her work. She glanced at the picture and looked again. "For a minute I thought it was a picture of you, Miss Brown," she said.

Even among the crowds on the streets, Ann felt isolated, alone. She paused on the library steps to watch the passing throng.

Ann laughed. "You can't exactly see me as one of Chicago's most popular debs, can you?"

"I'll go this far," Lola said. "You'll look just as nice as that girl when you've finished. Never in all my experience have I seen a girl with your ability for making clothes—or for wearing them."

Ann worked fast. She paid slight attention to the conversation that rippled under the hum of sewing machines. She had anticipated making friends at the Center, but had been disappointed. Girls came, usually in groups. They made one garment each and seldom came again.

ANN'S mind fluttered about. The letter to K295—it still rested in the bureau drawer. Irene Temple's picture—was there a resemblance between the debutante and herself? Temple—she had always known that name—one of her earliest memories was of spelling out the name in the back of Pete's watch. Wouldn't it be funny if—?

But that was ridiculous. Without doubt Pete had come by the watch in a game of chance. There had been other watches and several diamond rings, once a pedigreed dog. The valuables had never remained long in the Brown family. They disappeared when Lady Luck turned her back on Pete. Ann remembered how she had cried when the dog had been sold.

As long as Ann could remember Pete had carried the watch with the name "Temple" in the back. He must have liked it. That very watch was in her room.

On the tragic night of the fire Ann had been asleep on a couch in the sitting room of their forlorn quarters. While one fireman wrapped her in a coat and carried her to safety, another dumped a few things into Pete's suitcase. His watch had been on the table and Ann had discovered it the next morning in the suitcase with two of Pete's shirts, four decks of cards, a pair of dice, a box of poker chips, and her mother's little old Bible. It had been a strange inheritance. Ann often wondered what she would have done if Pete's friends hadn't taken up a collection.

SHE left her dress in a locker at the Center and went home at 10 o'clock. The young man's window was a golden square, but she ignored it. He had looked through her that morning. He typified the indifference of a great city.

She pulled the suitcase from a tiny closet and found the watch under several of last summer's cotton dresses. It had an old-fashioned case, thick and beautifully engraved. With a shining pink fingernail, Ann opened the case. "To Peter Temple," she read, "on his 21st birthday."

Peter Temple—Irene Temple—was it possible that Pete had belonged to the socially prominent Temple family whose every move was chronicled by the news reporters? And was she, by any chance, Ann Temple?

"I wonder," she mused. The thought of profiting by the fact, if it were a fact, did not then, or ever, occur to her. She had known her father for what he was, a delightful profligate, a joyous waster. He had been ousted by his family, and no doubt rightfully so.

She, as his daughter, had no claim on his people, whoever they might be. Young as she was, Ann knew that she must depend upon the strength of her own personality in the fight for a better existence, not benefit by an accident of birth.

She put the suitcase back in the closet and wandered to the bureau, fingering the letter thoughtfully, the letter to an unknown man who signed himself "Lonely."

She'd been pretty silly to answer the personal. Nice girls didn't make contacts that way. Instantly the question popped into her head—how did nice girls, without family background, make friends?

Vaguely she knew of several methods. You could sit in the lobby of a hotel, preferably at the dinner hour. You could attend public dances with other girls—if you knew any other girls. Ann realized the danger of making acquaintances in either way. Think-it over, she grew quite resentful toward the fates.

"All right, I won't mail the letter," she muttered. "Some day they'll find me dead of loneliness and that will be that." She took up the envelope and held it between her fingers, preparing to rip it across.

Hoarseness May Indicate Presence Of Another, More Serious Disease

By Dr. Morris Fishbein
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

The numerous conditions which may affect human speech are of special interest to the doctor because changes in the speaking voice may help in diagnosing diseases that are otherwise hidden.

The most common change in speech is hoarseness. Hoarseness is seen so often that frequently it is dismissed with little attention. Hoarseness is, of course, a symptom of trouble with the larynx, but this does not mean that the larynx and the vocal cords are necessary for speech. Dr. James S. Greene points out that a cat has no vocal cords, but that it has a voice with a wide range of sound.

The conditions which may affect the vocal cords, making operations necessary, include tumors, cancers, burning with lye and caustic substances, and tuberculosis. Because of the multiple conditions which may be involved, it has become customary for specialists to study every case of hoarseness seriously.

When a patient has a cancer of the larynx, involving the vocal cords, the doctor always explains that the matter of first importance is to get rid of the cancer. Most patients immediately want to know whether or not removal of the vocal cords will make it impossible for them to talk. Nowadays it is possible for doctors to tell patients that this operation does not mean inevitably a destruction of the voice.

Several different devices now enable patients to speak even after a complete removal of the larynx. All that the larynx does is to develop a sound out of a column of air. Speech is molded by the tongue, the cheeks, the lips and the palate. When the larynx is removed, the patient has to learn to collect air in the throat, the esophagus and the stomach to replace the air column in the lungs.

Next the patient learns to produce tone by means of the other tissues. Experts have developed regular voice lessons for people who have had their larynxes removed.

Recently an eminent physician sent a questionnaire to 30 patients on whom he had operated, during the past 10 years, for removal of the larynx due to cancer. Eighteen said they had learned to talk; five said that they could whisper, and only six said that they could not talk.

The persons who had been operated on included salesmen, merchants, carpenters, doctors, laborers, steam fitters, engineers, printers, tailors, a hotel proprietor, a milkman and a business executive Seventeen of the 30 were able to resume successfully the same work that they had done before the operation.

A train operating between Moscow and Tiflis, a journey requiring 76 hours, has radios, telephones, a library, and a special car for "culture and rest" as attractions.

Who Said It?

Men are sometimes remembered almost as much for the things they said as for the things they did during their lifetimes. From the series following each quotation below, pick the name of its author:

1. "All that I am, or hope to be I owe to my angel mother," (Washington, Napoleon, Lincoln Edison).

2. "Memory is the receptacle and sheath of all knowledge." (Plato, Schopenhauer, Voltaire, Cicero).

3. "Every noble work is at first impossible." (Carlyle, Addison, Milton, Zola).

4. "How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have a thankless child." (Wordsworth, Shakespeare, Longfellow, Keats).

5. "Where law ends, tyranny begins." (Thomas Paine, Edmund Burke, William Pitt, Patrick Henry).

Wheat Prices Drop Two Cents Bushel

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Wheat prices dropped about 2 cents a bushel today in a burst of week-end profit taking and selling inspired by improved moisture conditions over much of the grain belt.

Liquidation of loan wheat, though on a small scaler than recently, accounted for some hedging pressure. Gains of 2 to 3 cents built up in the wheat pit the past week and more than 10 cents since the start of the month were too much to resist for many traders who had profits. A last minute break in stocks attracted attention.

There was some concern regarding sharply lower temperatures following rain and snow over the grain belt but most dealers thought the cold wave would not be severe and would not last long. It was expected snow covering would protect wheat in most areas. Buying due to cold weather and following announcement that Hitler would speak after the close caused temporary rallies.

Wheat closed at the day's low point, 1¼ to 2½ cents lower than yesterday, May $1.04½ to $1.04⅝, July $1.02⅜ to $1.02½; corn ¼ to ½ cent down, May 56¾ to 56¾c, July 57¼c; oats ⅜ to ½ cent off; rye 1⅛ to 1¼ cent down and lard 5 to 10 cents lower. Soy beans were 1½ to 1⅝ cent lower.

Additional precipitation with rising temperatures in some localities was forecast for next week. European crop advices were pessimistic, one report indicating winter grain in Hungary had suffered because of severe cold in January while floods are expected in Yugoslavia and Spain when weather moderates. The United Kingdom increased prices established for imported wheat for the second time since the outbreak of the war.

Other grains also closed at or near the session's low points. Cash corn was ½ to 1 cent off, reflecting rather liberal weekend receipts estimated at 116 cars and poor shipping business. Booking of 44,000 bushels to arrive resulted in hedging pressure in the pit.

Stocks Lowered In Fast Trading

NEW YORK, Feb. 24—(AP)—Fast traders stepped into the market in the closing minutes today and shoved down leaders' prices around a point in an exciting burst of selling.

Caught in the downdraft were the steels, rubbers, farm implements and even some of the aircrafts which last, up to that instant, had been comfortably rising.

When the final bell stilled the hubbub, the Associated Press average of 60 selected stocks was down .3 of a point at 49.7. Transfers totaled 377,730 compared with 402,090 last Saturday.

Nothing which occurred in the session, right up to the last, gave indication of the small debacle which was to mark the close. The session drowsed along, with the steels leading a tiny advance at the end of the first half hour on reports that Youngstown and Pittsburgh production rates were likely to hold their own or even to pick up next week.

A few buying orders in Bethlehem and U. S. Steel came to light, and then practically everything in the exchange went silent. Nobody did anything.

Bethlehem slumped to 1¼ points below the previous close. Youngstown tumbled 1⅛. Case fell 3 points. Others off at the last included U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, Bendix (which had been strong up to the moment), United Aircraft, U. S. Steel, Western Union, Santa Fe, New York Central, Eastman, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical, Phelps-Dodge, Anaconda, and American Smelting.

Bonds also declined, although not as severely as stocks.

Two Attacks Loom For The Wildlife Group

Opponents Hope To Bombard It Off Law Books

By HOWARD FLIEGER

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Feb. 24.—(AP)—The State Conservation Commission—frequently shot at but never hit—is in for the fight of its brief, stormy life.

On at least two fronts opponents are marshalling to attack the constitutional amendment which was hailed as a model game and fish program at its beginning in 1937. They hope to bombard it clear off the state's law books in November.

One petition to repeal the amendment already is in circulation, backed by the new "Farmers and Sportsmen Alliance."

Another will appear soon striking at the heart of the conservation department's most conspicuous feature—its political and financial independence. Behind this attack will be the program's old foe, former State Senator A. L. McCawley of Carthage.

Both petitions are for constitutional amendments which, if adopted, would end the Conservation Commission in its present form.

The attacks are typical of the paradoxical existence of the new game and fish department. It was overwhelmingly authorized by the voters in 1936, climaxing a vigorous campaign to "take Missouri's wildlife out of politics." The amendment created a commission to regulate hunting, fishing and game preservation without any responsibility to the legislature or other agencies.

It was hailed as a sort of outdoor lover's paradise. But no sooner had it come into being than its troubles began.

First, the members of the new commission went beyond the boundaries of Missouri to find a director for the program. They chose I. T. Bode, a trained government conservationist — and promptly found themselves in the state supreme court.

Commission Won Fight

Opponents claimed the selection was unconstitutional. But the commission won. The court held, since it was created by a constitutional amendment, that was the latest expression of the public and it had the right to hire anybody any place.

So the commission got down to work. It set up some fishing regulations that differed from the old season limits fixed by the legislature—and back it went to the supreme court. Attorney General Roy McKittrick denounced it as a "constitutional government all itself."

But McKittrick last. The commission won. The court said it had the power to do anything it saw fit—regardless of old statutes—to regulate hunting and fishing.

Thus another victory, but by that time the 1938 election was drawing near. Already petitions were in circulation for an amendment that included a provision to repeal the conservation amendment and restore game and fish powers to the legislature. The proposal got on the ballot but was defeated.

Two months of comparative tranquility, then the 1939 legislature came to town. Out of the brief cases of members came two serious shots at the conservationists. One bill proposed a constitutional amendment to abolish the department. The other was more subtle. It would have outlawed penalty clauses of the game and fish laws and left the commission without the power to enforce its regulations.

Both dragged through most of the session but neither reached serious consideration.

Now election time is coming again and opponents already have opened fire. Should both the current attacks fail in November the commission members probably can look forward to comparative peace and quiet until the legislature meets next January—unless somebody hails them into court meanwhile.

No wonder their friends call them authorities on wild life.

Rabbits Shot Out Of Trees

Relatives of the Frank B. Meyer family, of 500 North Quincy avenue, who live in the state of Kansas, recently sent clippings from newspapers there telling some rabbit stories that are almost unbelievable.

During the time the heavy snow was on the ground, covering fields with a coating of ice and snow through which the rabbits have hardly been able to dig, the jack rabbits have gathered, so an article states, wherever there are shocks or stacks of feed and have eaten tons of dry feed.

One newspaper states that at McPherson hunters shot rabbits out of trees where they had climbed to eat the bark.

There was one story of a man who killed sixteen at one shot, when he shot into a bunch gathered around a feed stack.

One man says that the rabbits climbed into the hayloft of his barn to eat hay. He said he had a load of feed on a hayrack standing by the barn and they could jump from the snow drifts on to the rack, then by making another jump they could land in the open loft and eat the hay in the loft.

The rabbits were a common sight running along the streets and across lots, even in the most thickly settled parts of some of the towns.

Gone With The Wind

are the plastered and "artificial" looking waves of depression era — don't be "dated" — for in their place are the wide, soft natural-like waves, or soft waves and curls, combed into a natural-like hairdress.

In the picture "Gone With The Wind," we see a drama of the passing of the wholesome beauty of the 'Old South," and at the same time a revival of these lovely styles. BEAUTY, TOO, HAS A WAY OF GOING, unless protected and kept. An expert beautician can keep your charms lovely and fascinating long after a careless beauty treatment has "faded out."

A GOOD PERMANENT IS THE FOUNDATION FOR THESE FLATTERING HAIRDRESSES.

February Meet Of Arator PTA

The Arator Parent-Teacher Association held its February meeting with Mrs. John Dove, president, presiding. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Melvin May.

Miss Hastings spoke on the hot lunches which have been very satisfactorily served during the winter months.

Clarence Wells was in charge of the program, a "Father's night program." There were numbers by Dick Bennett's orchestra, and traffic talks by Paul Corl, sergeant of the state highway patrol.

Refreshments were served.

Swimming suits will apparently be longer this season. It was obvious they couldn't get any shorter without eliminating the industry completely.

A new type of waterproof hat for women will make it unnecessary for them to carry umbrellas. As if rain could do any further damage to some of the current numbers.
